Exchange Club Given Talk By Col. Wm. P. Gray

An interesting talk on his travels in the east and his visit to Washington, D. C., was given before members of the Redwood City Exchange Club Tuesday evening by Col. Wm. P. Gray, member of the local lumber firm of Gray-Thorning.

The chairman of the meeting was Albert Davies of the Davies Auto Repair Co. At the board of control meeting following the club luncheon, the following resolution was passed: "Whereas, it has come to the attention of the Redwood City Exchange Club that there is considerable sentiment for a municipal airport in Redwood City, and "Whereas, the development of aviation is a major project of the National Exchange Club, be it "Resolved that the Redwood City Exchange Club respectfully urges the city council to investigate at its earliest opportunity the feasibility of acquiring and equipping an adequate airport in Redwood City.

W. Hilton and Dr. Penez In New Location

Dr. Charles E. Penez, optometrist, and W. W. Hilton, jeweler, have come to the parting of the ways. For four years they enjoyed offices in the Sequoia Hotel building. Thursday they moved to the Waterhouse building on Broadway below the Southern Pacific tracks, where they will occupy separate offices, although adjoining.

Dr. Penez is a graduate of the California College of Optometry. His new quarters are modern in every way and the very acme of perfection. The examining room is the very last word to make investigations. It is spacious cheerful and well lighted with a myriad of small lamps that flood the room with a bright light. The reception room is a model of neatness and attractiveness. The drapery and colorful paintings give the whole a Mediterranean effect that reflects the artistic skill of Dr. Penez. The office is a credit to this city and to the owner who will receive the appreciation of the public in an increased business.

Mr. Hilton learned his trade with Shreve & Company of San Francisco and is a skilled mechanic. His large quarters in the new building are attractive, well equipped and cozy. The work shop is well designed for promptness in turning out orders with skill and ability. The store is well supplied with a stock of the finest jewelry, the best that can be obtained anywhere. The appointments are splendid, which show the skill of the owner.

Mr. Hilton has lived in this community for twenty years and is well known and liked by everyone. He is certain to do well in his new quarters.

Attorney Jos. R. Fitzpatrick and his mother, Mrs. Mary Fitzpatrick, are enjoying a vacation of two weeks spent in the southern part of the state.

Hinds & Hinds, local financiers and builders of homes, have just completed the construction of two modern bungalows at corner of James and Kings streets.

Mr. and Mrs. Al Russell and family are enjoying a trip to Vancouver, B. C. They will be away for about three weeks.

C. M. Dooxse, manager of the San Mateo County Title Co., returned last week from a vacation trip to his old home in Iowa. He also visited points of interest throughout the middle west.

Miss Maud Stillson is spending a month as the guest of friends in the southern city.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Baughn entertained Tuesday evening at their home on Birch street in honor of Miss Ellamae Clark of Salt Lake City, who is visiting her brother, W. I. Clark of this city. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Spooner of San Carlos, Mr. and Mrs. Baughn, Miss Ellamae Clark and W. I. Clark.

San Carlos To Vote on Bonds

The people of San Carlos will vote on Monday, August 15, on a bond issue for the purchase of 16 acres of land in the center of San Carlos, and extending back toward the hills for a civic center, park and recreational grounds. The land under consideration is a tract of land adjoining San Carlos Gardens to the north, and will form, if the bond issue carries, one of the finest civic center sites possessed by a community on the peninsula.

Following is the statement of Mayor Martin and the city council: "The People of San Carlos: "The facts relative to the proposed acquisition of sixteen and a fraction acres of land which you are to vote upon on August 15th are briefly as follows:

"For the past four years it has been generally understood that the people wished to acquire the site in question and with this thought in mind your council have worked with that end in view, until we have finally been able to get an opportunity of making the purchase at the price of $1250 per acre, or approximately $20,000 for the site. This price per acre is practically the value of an ordinary 50-foot lot in San Carlos.

Unusual Opportunity

"If we do not take advantage of this opportunity now we will never again have a chance to purchase a central site situated as this is for many times the price we are to pay for this, and we as the council ask that you give this much consideration before going to the polls.

"At that you are voting at this time is for $20,000 with which to make the purchase of this acreage. There is no intention of making any improvement work such as constructing the improvements can be made on the property it will be necessary to have the people's vote upon such improvement before we as your representatives can make the specified improvement. There is one possible exception to this statement which is as follows:

"It is the intention of your council to work jointly with the school board on the playground and baseball field and if anything should be done toward developing either of these, or both, the expenditure would be nominal and would come out of the general fund. Any other improvement work such as constructing buildings or making street improvements will be put up to you for your approval by vote.

"The opposition to the acquisition of this property have spent much time covering up this issue with a smoke screen relative to the school situation. For the information of those who are not fully informed on the points in question we wish to state that this issue has no connection whatever with the school question. The school question is settled and bonds to cover the purchase of the school sites was voted by the people last year and the school board are at this time consummating the purchase of five and a fraction acres adjoining the tract which we plan to acquire if you approve by your vote on August 15th.

"It is the intention to call a mass meeting of the people in the near future when further details such as the approximate cost per $100 of valuation etc., will be given and you will be informed of the date of this meeting, and we ask you at this time to make an effort to be present if at all in doubt as to the value of the property in question or the justification of your town owning such a site.

"We ask that you give this matter grave consideration and if you can see the advantage of owning a site so centrally situated for the future needs of your town at such a nominal price please go to the polls on August 15th and vote YES on the issue.

"Yours very respectfully,

"J. H. MARTIN, Mayor.
"E. H. JAMES,
"E. R. BURTON,
"J. B. BRYAN,
"Councilmen"

Dooxse, Mrs. Carrie Yearlan, Mrs. Katherine Keelo, Mrs. Marjorie Thompson, Miss Ruth Dooxse, Miss Carol Yearlan, Miss Mary Ballo, Miss Mary Weston, Miss Margaret Heiner, Miss Mabel Duncan, Miss Margaret Dooxse, Mr. Frank Deluch, W. H. Dooxse, Marshall White and Wesley Haydock.

Man Arrested Here Wanted In Three Places

When Joseph Bonette was brought to the county jail here on a charge of grand theft growing out of charges of Joseph Penno, Visitation hotel worker, he did not know just how bad off he was. Investigation disclosed that in addition to the original charges preferred by Penno that he is wanted in San Jose and Seattle on other charges and that he is also being sought by immigration officials.

Bonette is alleged to have defrauded Penno out of $600 said to have been his life's savings. He was arrested in San Francisco by members of the "buncum squad" of the San Francisco police, and was brought to the jail here by Deputy Sheriff Tom Maloney. He is being held in lieu of $3000 cash bail.

OUR SCHOOLS EDITORIAL

THERE are many parents in Redwood City whose only contact with their children's school is the child itself. Perhaps they have never even set foot inside of the school that trains their child.

We need an awakening of public conscience in this community toward our schools. We need a greater co-operation between the parents in Redwood City and our teachers. A greater co-operation between school and home means the training of a finer group of future citizens.

National leaders are agreed that the education of our youth has become almost our largest and certainly our most important activity. Each year has found an increasing interest on the part of the citizens of this country in education. This is evidenced by the fact that although the population of the nation has increased approximately 8 per cent during the past nine years, we have witnessed a 14 per cent increase in the number of children in our grade schools and a 70 per cent increase in the number of our high schools. In a period of less than ten years we have expanded our educational system from an outlay of twelve hundred million dollars to twenty-seven hundred million dollars.

In spite of this tremendous growth in school attendance and investment, many educators tell us that the adult population of this country are not taking the active interest in educational matters that the importance of the subject deserves.

This week's community campaign deals with this important factor in community life—the school. It presents some figures that are worthy of study. Equality of opportunity is the right of every child in Redwood City, and every adult, whether a parent or not should be interested in educational matters, for the way our young people are trained determines the citizens they are to be.

Fine Showing Will Be Made At State Fair

California's history, romance and progress will be given a magnificent setting when the gates are opened Saturday, August 31st, for the Diamond Jubilee State Fair and Western Exposition at Sacramento.

Installation of hundreds of exhibits is already under way, including the displays of fifty-five California counties which will convert the interior of the spacious horticultural pavilion into a vast animated picture of California's matchless diversity of products and resources.

In many of the county exhibits a romantic or historic background will be provided in keeping with the spirit of the Jubilee Fair.

In the rounds of the building a huge replica of the Great Seal of California is being constructed, the entire place being made of products representative of all California. This colorful and impressive display is being installed by Sacramento county.

At one end of the main floor Ventura county is building an attractive exhibit in which Ramona's home forms the romantic stage for assembling the county's various products. Sonoma county, where the California Bear Flag was born, will reproduce the famous banner in grains and fruits.

Next week the work of installing state exhibits in the Western Exposition building will be started. Nevada, Oregon, Arizona, Utah, Idaho, Wyoming and the Republic of Mexico will have exhibits, grouped around a central feature display from the Kern county farm of President Herbert Hoover.

Charles W. Paine, secretary-manager of the exposition, announces a greater number of entries for the coming show than for any State Fair in California's history. This is particularly noticeable in the livestock, horse show and educational departments.

Veterans Post In Public Ceremonial

The first public ceremonial of Alan Hammond Nichols Post No. 69, Veterans of Foreign Wars to be held here, was well attended by members of the post and other veterans' organizations last Thursday night. Members of the G. A. R., Spanish War Veterans, and Women's Relief Corps were present.

The evening was featured by an address upon the government's plan for hospitalization for war veterans given by a speaker sent out by the Veterans' Bureau.

Three members of the G. A. R., representing the last survivors of that organization in Palo Alto and Redwood City were given the honorary degree of the order as was also E. B. Hinman, past commander of the local post of Spanish-American War Veterans. The veterans of the Civil War who were so honored were H. B. Woodward of this city, and E. D. Dimmick and D. T. Sullivan of Palo Alto. Mrs. Sullivan, wife of the veteran, read an original poem dedicated to Armistice Day.

Four new members, Evan Wilkes, William Slay, Albert Becket and Neal B. Hooker were taken into the post.

Local Couple Holds Silver Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Locatelli of this city, and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bacigalupi of San Francisco, celebrated their silver anniversary on last Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Locatelli at 271 Jefferson avenue.

It has been the yearly custom of the two families to get together at least on this one day each year. Twenty members of the two families were present and joined in congratulating the two couples on their quarter century of domestic happiness.

A surprise party was tendered to Mrs. George Ferguson at her home on Hudson street Tuesday evening by a number of her friends, the occasion being her birthday. Mrs. Ferguson was the recipient of many hearty good wishes and congratulations. Those present were Messrs. and Mesdames George Ferguson, Thomas Clark, T. C. Rice, Joseph Gibson, S. L. Netherton, O. S. Olson, John Isaac, Mr. Herrington and Mr. and Mrs. Chittendon of Palo Alto.

MODIFICATION ASKED IN COMMISSION STAND

Highway Body Requested To Alter Attitude Toward Grade Crossing On Bayshore Road

A modification of the stand taken by the California Highway Commission was asked in a resolution passed Monday by the Redwood City Chamber of Commerce. The action of the local organization was the result of the stand taken by the state commission in regard to the extension of the Bayshore highway, which has been held up by the construction by the Southern Pacific of an "orphan" spur track across the proposed route of the highway.

The resolution as proposed by Asa Hull and passed unanimously by the chamber of commerce was as follows:

"Whereas, a controversy has arisen between the California Highway Commission and the Southern Pacific Company over the spur track intended to serve the Emma Rose Estate property at San Mateo, and "Whereas, it has become apparent that the completion of the Bay Shore highway to the south cannot proceed until the dispute is settled, and

"Whereas, the industrial development of the Bay Shore requires occasional grade crossings of a temporary nature, and

"Whereas, no community has ever been expected or required to relinquish their property for future growth in the interest of a public road, now therefore be it

"Resolved, that this Chamber of Commerce deplores the inflexible attitude by the California Highway Commission and urges that they revise their program for this section so as to give reasonable and practical access by spur track to industrial areas along the Bay Shore

Highway during their period of development."

This action was taken at the Monday noon luncheon meeting of chamber of commerce. The meeting was attended by many who were interested in the development of the bay area and in the settlement of the dispute between the highway commission and the railroad.

Among the visitors present were W. H. Kirkbride brother of Major C. N. Kirkbride of San Mateo, and engineer for the Southern Pacific Co.; D. A. Raybould, chairman of the industrial committee of the San Mateo Chamber of Commerce; Miss Elizabeth Hole, secretary of the same organization; Judge J. J. McGrath, president of the Peninsula Industrial Conference; Capt. A. M. Simon, chairman of the highway committee of the Palo Alto Chamber of Commerce, and others.

The action of the local organization followed a lengthy discussion of the situation, including a detailed account by E. B. Hinman of the events which have lead up to the present deadlock and of the meeting held here on July 17, in an attempt to settle the matter satisfactorily to both sides.

Kirkbride stated the Southern Pacific's side of the matter and stated that the building of the track which resulted in all the difficulty was built for the development of the industrial area fronting on the bay, and was not intended to prevent the Western Pacific from obtaining its peninsula line nor to block the Bayshore road.

Funeral Held For George Mitchell, Redwood Builder

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon for George S. Mitchell, well-known builder of this city, who passed away Friday evening at the Mills Memorial hospital in San Mateo. He had been removed to the San Mateo hospital a few days previously for an acute attack of appendicitis. He was operated on, but his condition was found to be so serious that he failed to recover.

Services were held at the parlors of J. Layng & Tinney on Washington street, and were attended by many friends of the local man. Rev. C. H. Stevens, formerly pastor of the Congregational church here, and an old friend of the family, conducted the funeral service, and Otis M. Carrington sang two songs, "Abide With Me," and "Somewhere."

George Mitchell had been a resident of this city for the past 35 years. He was a native of New York and was 57 years of age. He was for many years foreman for the late Robert Brown, one of Redwood City's early contractors, and builder of many of the older buildings in the business section. Later he engaged in the contracting business for himself, and in recent years had been foreman for Gus Waller.

The deceased is survived by his widow, Mrs. Josephine Mitchell and by three sons, Raymond, Harold and Stanley Mitchell. All make their home in this city. He was a member of the Embarcadero Camp of Woodmen of the World and also of the local branch of the Carpenters' Union.

Mrs. A. M. Roberts of Fresno and little daughter are visiting at the home of Mrs. Roberts' mother, Mrs. Henrietta Jacobus on Stambaugh street.

Well-Known Lawyer Dies in San Mateo

John T. Williams of San Mateo, formerly United States District Attorney, and a well-known political figure in this state, passed away at his home Wednesday morning, following a brief illness.

Williams was born in Ventura and entered the office of the district attorney of San Francisco as a deputy, a position he held at the time of the great fire. Later he acted as attorney for Thomas Pinn, when Pinn was elected sheriff of San Francisco. He resigned this position to accept the federal office in 1921 and continued in that capacity until 1924, when he resigned to enter private practice in San Francisco. He was attorney for the San Francisco Toll Bridge Company and other large concerns. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Alice Williams.

Brother of Local Woman Drowns In Surf Off Pedro

While swimming in the surf near San Pedro point last Sunday, Alfred M. Bini was seized with cramps and sank below the surface of the water before assistance could be rendered by friends who were nearby at the time. Bini was a former resident of this city and was a brother of Mrs. Vincent Maranta of this city. He was a World War veteran and saw service in France with the Twenty-fifth Engineers. He was a sheet metal worker, and had been residing at Los Angeles for the past two years.

In addition to Mrs. Maranta, he is attending care by another sister, Mrs. S. J. Boitano of San Francisco.

Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Whitehead returned early this week from a vacation spent at Blue Lake in Lake county.

Alexander Tells How to Pitch

ROVER CLEVELAND ALEXANDER recently told why he has been successful and, incidentally, told ambitious men how to become successful pitchers.

Among the things he advises are:

Develop control.

Study batters.

Pitch the ball where the batter does not care to have it pitched.

Alexander, need say no more. Any pitcher with a fair amount of stuff who can control it and who knows where to put it will succeed.

There are plenty of pitchers with stuff on the ball, but their stuff is wasted and they get nowhere. They have never mastered control and they have not studied opposing batsmen.

Alexander never had what the profession calls a "world of stuff."

He was never endowed with the amount of stuff that Christopher Mathewson carried.

All he had was a fast ball and a curve.

Waiter Johnson and "Dizzy" Vance had much better fast balls and a dozen pitchers could curve a ball better than Alexander.

Still, he is one of the great pitchers of the game and will always be remembered as such. No pitcher ever knew better where to send the ball and no one ever knew better when. Furthermore, no pitcher ever could get it to the right spot as often as Alexander. He is probably the greatest control pitcher of all time.

G. Alexander.

Cleaner Fight Game Is Now Sought by England

A cleanup of British boxing with a view to cleaner and better sport, is envisaged by a scheme which is to be considered at a meeting of the British Boxing Board of Control.

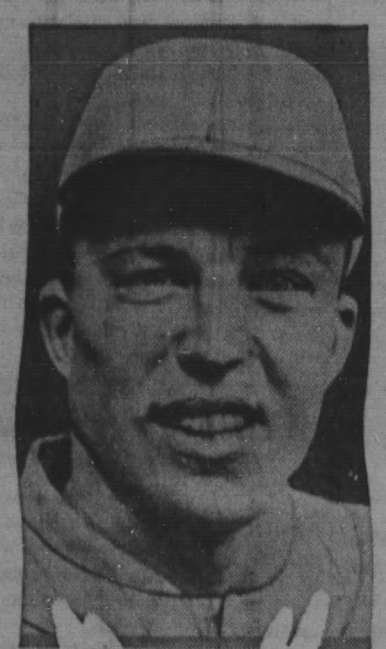

The main points suggested in the scheme are that disputes will be settled by independent men with no financial interest in boxing. Every participant must obtain a license.

Each section—promoters, boxers, referees, boxers' managers, and trainers—will nominate their own representative to the board, which will decide all rules governing the sport.

Championships will be regulated and approved contracts used by all promoters.

The objects of the board are, among other things, to encourage boxing in the United Kingdom, to raise the standard and control of professional boxing, and to act as a general board of appeal.

Douthit Gets Them

When Douthit goes after them he gets them.

That's what they say in St. Louis about the Cardinals' great little center fielder, who is out ahead of most of the major league center gardeners again this year.

Taylor Lee Douthit has been a central figure in the splendid defensive play of the Red Birds during their remarkable showing of the last four years.

Jimmy Dykes Is Game's Most Versatile Player

Jimmy Dykes, third baseman of the A's, is another athlete whose playing career holds more than the usual run of interest to the fans over the country. He probably is one of the game's most versatile ball players. He can play any infield position and is a capable outfielder. In the final game of the 1927 season, which had found Dykes playing almost every position, Mack listened to the pleadings of the fans and sent Dykes in to pitch the last inning. He retired the side runless and the fans packed him off the field on their shoulders.

Miss Killilea to Keep on Running Brewer Team

Rumors that Miss Florence Killilea, baseball's only woman club owner, was to sell her team, the Milwaukee Brewers of the American association, were shot to pieces when she stated that she was not going to quit the game because her boys were not on the top.

"Sure, I will be back next year even if the Brewers finish the season in last place," she said. The Milwaukee team is in sixth place to date.

Miss Killilea inherited the team from her father, Henry Killilea, who died last year.

Nebraska vs. Billikens

St. Louis university will be included on Nebraska's 1930 basket ball schedule, Herbert D. Gish, University of Nebraska athletic director, has announced. The Cornhuskers will play at St. Louis, December 28 as part of their eastern trip during the Christmas holidays. St. Louis university will play at Lincoln in a return game, but the date has not been set. The game at St. Louis will be the first of the trip.

Cards Claim Sherid

Roy Sherid, young Yankee pitcher, was called in by Commissioner Landis to give close-up details of his signing with the New York club. The St. Louis Cardinals are understood to be claiming him as their property. Sherid, then an amateur, was tried out by the Salisbury club in the Eastern Shore league in Maryland for five weeks in 1929. He was released unconditionally, but the Cardinals still insist that he should have gone to them.

BASEBALL NOTES

Heinie Sand's great work at Rochester has brought rumors he will be taken by the Cards to replace Gelbert.

Why do they say the lively ball has done away with the old-time place hitter? Isn't over the right field wall a place?

We seem to have got to the point where it is considered less trouble in the first place to make a home run than a triple.

Only the Giants, Braves, Phils and White Sox have gone along with the same man playing shortstop regularly this season.

Richard Siebert, southpaw pitcher of Concordia college at St. Paul, was signed by Scout Jack Ryan for the St. Louis Cardinals.

Babe Ruth, Goose Goslin, Harry Hellmann and Frank O'Doul are said to be the best dressed players in the major leagues.

Lawton "Whitey" Witt, former Yankee and Athletic outfielder, is to play with Reading. He has been on the voluntary retired list.

The Memphis club of the Southern association has purchased Frank Wilson, an outfielder, from Milwaukee of the American association.

Disastrous thought that this is not a shortstop year, Rabbit Maranville of the Braves dropped a fly for the first time in 17 years.

Christy Mathewson's superstition that to throw the ball to the third baseman was unlucky has been taken up by many other pitchers.

Jack Hopkins, right-hand pitcher with St. Paul of the American association, has been sold outright to Jersey City of the International league.

They said if Massachusetts got Sunday baseball the Red Sox would finish well up in the standing, but we guess they just meant well up in the money.

Another form of "athletic heart" is that suffered by the spectator who wonders whether the unreliable young infielder is going to get the ball across to first.

Howard "Lefty" Kimball, for the past four years pitcher on Western State teachers' college baseball team, has reported to the Cleveland Indians for a tryout.

"No two things are absolutely identical," says a New York professor of physics. And how about the pitch the umpire calls a strike, and the next one he calls a ball?

Gordon Slade, shortstop of the leading Mission club in the Coast league, probably will be the next Californian to advance to the big show. The Pirates have been after him.

Tom York, guardian of the Yankee stadium press box, played professional baseball as far back as 1870 for Troy, N. Y., in the old National association, forerunner of the National league.

Nick Allen, who has been appointed manager of the Tulsa team of the Western league, has been in organized baseball since 1913 serving as a catcher and manager for various teams.

While the umpires keep their eyes glued on him for the first signs of cheating, Dave Danforth, veteran southpaw, continues to turn in victories for the New Orleans Pelicans.

Connie Mack, manager of the Philadelphia Athletics, has four children prominent in sports. Roy and Earl play baseball, another son plays high school football, and a girl is a basket ball star.

The Boston Red Sox maintain four scouts in the United States and Canada. President Robert Quinn says you cannot buy a good player at any price in the big leagues today and as a result a club must depend on what it can get from the minor leagues.

A shortstop is a little man who throws a ball in the broad general direction of a large chap wearing a first baseman's mitt.

Harry "Smut" Smith, outfielder, has been sold by the Charlotte team of the South Atlantic league to Jacksonville of the Southeastern league.

Betting on a baseball game has never been greatly favored. The sport is one which has never shown the need of mercenary stimulus.

TILDEN TO QUIT AT END OF YEAR

Big Bill Says He Is Playing His Last Season.

"The year 1929 sees the end of my international tennis," writes William T. Tilden II, nine times ranking tennis star of the United States and mainstay of American Davis cup teams since 1920, in Liberty.

Announcing his retirement from international competition, "Big Bill" states he will remain an amateur and continue to play tennis "as long as my two wobbling legs will function and my aged and enfeebled arm will swing, as long as my age-dimmed eyes can see a ball."

Davis cup competition will know no longer the smashing cannon-ball service and amazing all-around tennis of the greatest player of modern times. In the future, Tilden says, he will play as an individual, not as a member of any American team.

"I have had a grand time, but I must hereafter write and speak of my triumphs and failures in world tennis in the past tense, for I am through," the Philadelphia writes.

"Not through with the game, but through with international competition. My future status will continue to be amateur. I have no thought or intention of turning professional."

Tilden, who has been ranked No. 1 in American tennis since 1920, has had frequent squabbles with the United States Lawn Tennis association, and spent the winter of 1928-29 in involuntary retirement. He makes humorous, but rather dignified, reference to his differences with the U. S. L. T. A. in announcing his withdrawal from international competition.

"I hope to be able to play for years in exhibitions at schools and colleges or in public parks where I feel I am aiding in the development of our future champions."

"Not only have I no chance but I have no burning desire to sit in the seats of the mighty in the councils of the U. S. L. T. A. My views are at variance with the traditions of the association but not with its ethics. I fear I would want to see too much progressiveness and liberalism in its administration. I am for the players, first, last and all the time."

Allen Is Clever

Jockey C. E. Allen has had more than his share of success in riding winning horses on western tracks this year. His clever ride on Martinique landed the Quickstep handicap from a high-class field of horses at Latonia recently.

Sport Notes

Great Britain boasts 100,000 women affiliated with golf clubs.

Penn State loses 36 letter winners in 12 varsity sports through graduation this year.

Warren Davis of Hoquiam, Wash., has been elected captain of the Washington university crew for 1930.

Lafayette, Lehigh and Rutgers, traditional rivals in all sports, recently banded together, and are to be known in the future as "The Middle Three" group.

Columbia crews, under the Glendons, have beaten crews of every college except Wisconsin. Wisconsin has been absent from varsity competition in recent years.

Roy Clifford, basket ball coach of Colliwood and developer of three championship teams, has been officially declared Western Reserve university cage mentor.

This Is the Latest Type of Helicopter

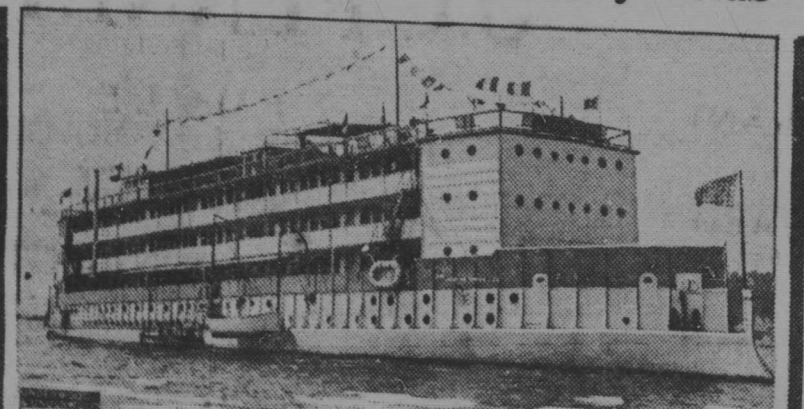

The "Malden Milwaukee," all-metal monoplane which has been purchased from the Hamilton Metalplane company of Milwaukee by the Johnson Aeroplane company of Delray, Fla. Jesse C. Johnson has converted the plane into an experimental helicopter by providing horizontal 18-foot propellers for each wing, in addition to the front prop. The wing props are driven by shafts from a motor in the fuselage and are expected to cause the plane to rise and land almost vertically.

GIVEN VAIL MEDALS

Scores of people probably owe their lives to Mrs. Althea P. She has been awarded the Vail silver and bronze medals and $250 in cash by the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company.

SCHOOL DAYS

SCHOOL DAYS! What a wealth of memory and charm those simple words hold for most of us!

The most valuable and cherished days in one's life are school days. They are not only the days in which the fundamentals of knowledge are acquired, but they are also the days in which character, habits and personality are moulded and shaped.

Our homes exert the greatest influence over our boys and girls, but the next greatest influence that determines the type of future citizens of our community is the School.

It is most unfortunate that a nation-wide survey of our United States shows that there are far too many children and youths who are not enjoying the school days that should be such an important part of their early lives.

School attendance is a Community problem, because schools are far and away the chief community enterprise. There is, on an average, as much invested in school property as there is in all other public property combined. The schools should be the best administered phase of our civic life.

The average community spends over $100 each year on every child attending school and is devoting $200 worth of school property per pupil. However, the average Community does not rate high on its schools because it seldom has much in the way of Vocational education. Still more often it has little or nothing in the way of Evening Schools. The system of grade and high schools of the average community usually rates but 75% of standard.

It is important in our progress as a community that our schools be above average—that they train our boys and girls efficiently—that they properly equip them to meet the trials and opportunities of life. Our aim should be:

1. Modern school buildings, equipment and recreational facilities.
2. A school year that covers nine months of the year.
3. Efficient teachers who are well paid.
4. All children of school age attending school regularly.
5. All of our children graduating from grade and high school.
6. A higher education, or special vocational education, for all those whose future duties will require special training.

Only a limited number of men and women in our town give our school system proper attention. Responsibility lies on the shoulders of a mere few. As our chief community enterprise, our schools deserve the thought and attention of everyone.

School Days! For memories' sake and for our children, any goal less than the "best in the world" for our schools should be too low for

Law Violation

NO NATION, certainly of the size and resources of the United States, has ever put under way a more constructive or more comprehensive movement to deal with a great national menace than was inaugurated by President Hoover when he appointed a committee of representative and competent citizens to deal with the problem of law violation and to seek a remedy for this ultra-modern condition.

When we stop for a moment to think of the many elements which go into law violation, our cosmopolitan population, our great wealth, our native organizing ability, which can be misdirected as well as properly directed, we can agree with Mr. Wickersham, the chairman of the commission, when he says that no one can realize, who has not looked into it, just how baffling and perplexing the question is.

"There are forty-eight states and the federal jurisdiction," Mr. Wickersham declared, "yet there is no place where statistics concerning crime are assembled to which one can go and read them, as one would read health statistics."

In its effort to get a start on the problem the commission is going into the courts and police bureaus of the country for the figures. The work of assembling the statistics will therefore be necessarily slow and laborious. In addition there will be the hearing of witnesses and the assembling of opinion from men and women in every walk of life.

The job is not one which can be done in a day and yet it is one which ought to be done as thoroughly as possible. There is no question that something can be done in an effort to arrest the crime evil in America. It is a national menace which can no longer be ignored.

Those who oppose the theory of prohibition of the liquor traffic in America are wont to blame the crime wave on to the violation of the eighteenth amendment. But those who have studied the question, while admitting that bootlegging and hi-jacking form a serious problem, know that the causes are deeper than this. Others have blamed the crime wave on to the let-down which followed the tension of the World War. But now that the period of reconstruction is over in America it would seem that this post-war relaxation ought to be about over. Yet the crime wave continues.

The truth is, of course, that crime was on the increase before the war and before the eighteenth amendment was adopted. There were violations of the liquor laws even then and the liquor question was in politics, just as it is in some communities today.

One notable fact is that the criminals of today are to be found in large part among the youth of the land. Just why this is true is probably due to no one reason. It may be that the American home it not what it used to be in many instances, yet it is an undeniable fact that all over America there are millions of homes where parents try industriously to guide their children along proper paths, just as they have always done—and these homes are to be found in the city as well as in the country.

Life today, and the rearing of children, is a much more complicated process than ever before. Therefore many people blame the crime wave in a part at least on to the complications of modern civilization. But this is only passing the buck. The root of the evil must be found and when it is found it will doubtless be discovered also that the tree of iniquity has several roots.

This is what makes the task of the new crime commission so difficult. No one remedy can be found because there is no single reason for the increase in crime.

At any rate, President Hoover is to be commended for tackling this all-important problem in characteristic fashion. The high character of the members of the commission, and their intelligence and ability can assure us that a real effort will be made to find a solution, or solutions, to the problem confronting them. And certainly every good citizen has it as a part of his duty to co-operate with the new commission in every way possible.

We do not want America to be known as the most lawless of the civilized nations. The reputation is not an enviable one and in addition, the menace is one which gnaws deeply into the fundamentals of the republic.

Urges Appropriation For Rural Education

THE cost of educating children in the rural schools is twice as high as the cost of educating them in the cities, said Representative Charles Brand, of Ohio, in calling the attention of the Advisory Committee on Education to his bill which would provide for an annual appropriation for two years of $100,000,000 to the rural schools.

He pointed out that the high cost of education was responsible for a large part of the high taxes in rural communities, taxes which depressed land values and thereby diminished the capacity of the land to pay taxes.

Another hardship faced by the rural community is that many children, after $2,000 has been spent on their education and $2,000 on maintenance, go to the city and return no money to the country, said Mr. Brand. The Department of Agriculture had informed him, he said, that 200 children leave each county in Iowa for the city every year.

This represents a complete loss in investment of $800,000 annually, on an average for each county. His bill, he explained, is a Federal grant aid of rural education. The sum of $100,000,000 is appropriated for each of two years. States taking advantage of the appropriation would be required to match the Government's expenditure with an equal appropriation. The money would be available for the payment of salaries or other current expenses at the elementary schools in rural areas.

What Result?

AT times in reading the names of groups who receive their diplomas of naturalization one wonders if the often referred to "Melting Pot of America" is not called upon to perform impossible tasks in the making of American citizens from so many various races and nationalities.

Surely, one reading these names would not think of them as Americans. If by making them citizens of this country it is possible to assure their allegiance to its laws and ideals, if it is possible for them to sever the bonds that attach to the countries of their birth and devote their interests to the United States, then possibly no harm is done. On the other hand, if they continue to think first of their native lands, form groups and continue its customs, then in time the result could be disastrous. Instead of a united citizenry with allegiance to one flag and one government, the population of this country would consist of many small groups with divided interests. That this condition already exists to some extent was brought to the front during the World War.

Some of our legislators have seen the possible danger and are demanding that all immigrants to this country be barred for at least a period of years. They base their contentions on the ground that the saturation point of the United States in respect to population is being rapidly approached and that those already here should be thoroughly Americanized instead of allowing the flood of immigrants to continue each year. The wisdom of their contentions is obvious.

To Save Lives

LAST week two boys drowned in a pool on a coastside stream in this county. When the two boys were removed from the water a rush call was sent to the fire department of this city for its pulmotor, and this had to be sent by automobile across the mountains a distance of 35 miles in an attempt to revive the boys.

It would appear to us that a county with a long coastline used constantly by bathers in the summer time, and with streams with swimming pools all along the western side of the county, should be equipped with life saving apparatus at convenient places nearer to the coast than Redwood City. The county spends large sums of money for county hospital needs. It might profitably spend some money for the purchase of several pieces of life saving equipment to be placed at strategic points on the coastsides for use in just such emergencies as that which occurred last week.

A Never-Ending Work

THE telephone industry is never still. Each year progress grows more pronounced as our social and industrial civilization develops. During 1929 the Bell System is to spend $530,000,000 to increase and improve the telephone facilities of the nation. New territories are being given service; long distance communication is being accelerated and broadened; almost every American community shares in the work.

The American people have come to depend on the telephone as they depend on an adequate water supply, electricity and the railroads. Our modern life is distinguished by its speed and efficiency. Without the telephone, we would come to a standstill.

SENATOR SHORTRIDGE URGES HIGH TARIFF

Tariff Needed To Meet Competition With Free Trade Countries Where Living Costs Are Low

Senator Shortridge, Republican of California, in an address recently in National Radio Forum, declared that George Washington, Abraham Lincoln and Herbert Hoover were alike in believing in a tariff for the protection of American industry. The address was one of the ablest ever delivered on the tariff question. It should be read by every American.

Among other things the senator said: "What the American people want is a tariff that protects. 'Protects what?' 'Protects whom?' 'They want a tariff that protects American-raised, American-mined, American-manufactured products and American men and women from competition with like foreign products raised, mined or manufactured by cheap foreign labor.' 'They want a tariff that keeps the American market for the American producer.'"

"Such a tariff means prosperity for all—American producer and American consumer alike. 'Such a tariff makes the city a profitable market for the farm; such a tariff makes the farm a profitable market for the city. Manifestly, if the city languishes the farm suffers; if the farm fails the city shares the loss. They rise or fall together. Every theory should be judged by its fruits. Judge these two theories of tariff legislation by their fruits, by known and experienced results. 'The free trade theory has cursed America. 'The protective theory has blessed America. 'If the free trade theory were now put into operation it would bankrupt America. 'That theory would ruin our vast manufacturing industry. 'That theory would ruin our great agricultural industry. 'There is not a State in the Union that would profit by that theory. 'There is not a city or a village that would profit by that theory. 'There is not a farm, an orchard or a field in American that would profit by that theory. 'What is true of California is true of other States as to their agricultural and other industries. We cannot compete with imports from cheap labor countries, nor can Florida, nor can Maine, nor can New York. The American farmer cannot, the American miner cannot, the American manufacturer cannot survive in competition with cheap labor and hence cheap producing countries. 'It is desirable to close our mills and mines and turn out of employment American citizens?—Is it desirable to cause our farms to be abandoned? Is it desirable to reduce wages of skilled and unskilled labor to foreign levels? 'If so, reduce tariff duties, strike down the American protective tariff theory and put into operation the British free trade theory. 'Is it good policy to surrender the American consuming market to the foreign producers? 'If so, wipe out all tariff duties and let foreign products pour into America. 'Is it statesmanship to destroy any American industry, be it agriculture, mining or manufacture? 'If so, Washington was not a statesman, Henry Clay was not a statesman, James G. Blaine was not a statesman, William McKinley was not a statesman, Calvin Coolidge is not a statesman, Herbert Hoover is not a statesman—for each and every of these great men, dead and living, have striven and strive not to tear down, but to build up—not to destroy but to encourage and keep alive American industries whereby American labor may find profitable employment and thereby enjoy a better and a happier life. 'The Republican platform adopted at Kansas City contained this plank: 'We realize that there are certain industries which cannot now successfully compete with foreign producers because of lower foreign wages and a lower cost of living abroad, and we pledge the next Republican Congress to an examination and, where necessary, a revision of these schedules to the end that American labor in these industries may again command the home market, may maintain its standard of living, and may count upon steady employment in its accustomed field. 'The American people, by an overwhelming majority, indorse that plank in the Republican platform and shall endeavor to have it carried into effect through the tariff bill which is now under consideration by the Senate committee on finance. 'I hold in my hand the most important and timely document ever issued by our government—"Wages in Foreign Countries, a Compilation of the Latest Available Data Regarding Wages in Industrial and Agricultural Employments." It was prepared by the Bureau of Labor Statistics under the direction of our Secretary of Labor, James J. Davis, and, upon my suggestion, printed as a State document. 'In his letter of transmittal addressed to me our Secretary of Labor says: 'My dear Senator Shortridge: 'In our recent interview you expressed a desire to be authoritatively informed regarding money wages and hours of labor in industrial employments (including agriculture) in foreign countries. Agreeing with you that such information will be of value in the framing and enactment of Federal legislation in aid of American labor and American industries, including agriculture, I have caused the Bureau of Labor Statistics to prepare a statement showing the rates of wages and the hours of labor in many foreign countries, making use of the latest available sources of information.

"All wages amount have been converted to their gold equivalent in United States currency."

"The sad condition and poor rewards of labor in these foreign countries explain why their people are hoping, striving, praying to come to America, and give us abundant reasons why we should uphold the American protective tariff system. 'Wishing other people peace and prosperity, our duty is to safeguard America."

fluence of airports on adjacent land areas.

"The modern airport is becoming a gateway to the city or community it serves. It may be very directly compared to a railroad terminal in its functions, facilities, and general character. The airport has the distinctive advantage, however, from the hotel aspect that thousands of people visit airports merely to watch planes arrive and depart, and these crowds are in a holiday mood, demanding food, care and entertainment. Passengers traveling by air require hotel accommodations, either for short periods or for overnight stay at a stopping point en route. The field personnel, including ground attendants, the administration officials, and the pilots must be housed and fed.

"All this activity in connection with airports is creating new uses for real estate because land is in demand for the hotels, shops, restaurants, and other structures, to say nothing of the land required for the airport itself.

"They Need Lots of Space. The ideal commercial landing field or airport should contain from 300 to 600 acres. A survey of the combined area of all American airports in Kansas City where scores of are 1439 airports in this country at present with at least 1,000 more under consideration by various municipalities.

"The development of aviation has had already and will have a much greater effect on real estate values with consequent changes in its use. Like rail terminals, the great airports under construction in all parts of the country will have a direct bearing on the surrounding property. As air traffic increases, there will be more bus lines in operation to and from airports, more street car lines will be put into operation.

thus giving these areas more transportation facilities, which are so vital to their development.

"The tendency to beautify airports by landscaping and fine buildings will also increase the values of surrounding properties and perhaps consequently put it to new uses. GRAHAM-PAIGE MAKES UNIQUE TIME RECORD

In a recent hill-climbing competition in Victoria, Australia, a Graham-Paige, winner of two events, aroused as much interest through the consistency of its performance as it did through its victories. Both climbs, over a 1600-yard course, were made in exactly the same time to the fifth of a second, the Graham-Paige being locked at 1 minute 59 4-5 seconds for each of its runs.

The test was held under the auspices of the Royal Automobile Club on Zig-Zag hill at Lilydale, the climb consisting of a series of hair-pin turns on a different grade. The Graham-Paige won the trade stock standard event in its class, and afterward won the event open to all cars. Its feat of covering the course twice without the least variation in time was hailed as one of the most unusual demonstrations of consistent performance and skill in driving ever recorded in Australia. The car was piloted by Walter Whitbourn in both events.

MENLO PARK

Col. Skeggs Addresses Citizens Here
Colonel Skeggs, divisional engineer for the state highway commis-

way in this locality Tuesday evening. Skeggs gave a lucid and brief talk on the subject displaying wonderful knowledge of the state roads and their needs. He said it was the desire of the commission to have a one hundred foot wide highway from San Francisco to San Jose to provide for the future travel. A contract was recently awarded to widen the road from San Francisco to Redwood City for four and a half miles south. The work would be continued through the City of Menlo Park provided the rights of way could be secured and the money for such work would be taken care of in the next biennium. The cost of paving forty feet of the highway would be paid for by the commission as well as half the cost of the right of way and moving the buildings the remainder to be paid by the city. Skeggs strongly urged the city to begin operations at once by securing a survey and getting rights of way. The road through Menlo Park is 66 feet, that 17 feet might be secured on both sides of the street or the 34 feet might be taken on one side as the property owner may deem fit. Skeggs said that the right of way from the ice plant to the bridge along the Stanford property had already been obtained. After the talk Skeggs answered many questions put to him by those interested. Three councilmen from Redwood City were present. Skeggs said the commission would not grant permission for the automatic signal system recently asked for by the city council. Mayor Ellis, on behalf of the people, thanked Skeggs for his address.

The estate is estimated to total about $2000 the petition states. Secker died two weeks ago as the result of injuries received in an automobile accident. In addition to the petitioner he leaves a brother, George Secker, also of this city.

One month from today California's Diamond Jubilee State Fair will be under way. For the past year the State Agricultural Society has been planning the notable event. Celebrating the 75th anniversary of the first California State Fair, the exposition this year will be more spectacular, more magnificent than ever before. And it will be more than a State Fair—it will be an exposition representative of the entire west, with California's neighboring states and the Republic of Mexico occupying one of the immense pavilions with striking displays of their products and resources. All California will benefit from this record-breaking anniversary exposition, and all Californians should rally behind it enthusiastically.

When Food Sours

Lots of folks who think they have "indigestion" have only an acid condition which could be corrected in five or ten minutes. An effective anti-acid like Phillips Milk of Magnesia soon restores digestion to normal.

Phillips does away with all that sourness and gas right after meals. It prevents the distress so apt to occur two hours after eating. What a pleasant preparation to take! And how good it is for the system! Unlike a burning dose of soda—which is but temporary relief at best—Phillips Milk of Magnesia neutralizes many times its volume in acid.

Next time a hearty meal, or too rich a diet has brought on the least discomfort, try—

Transmission of Genius

The question of heredity influences is difficult to determine, although in the matter of musicians it seems strong. Although Beethoven's grandfather, a musician, died when the lad was only four years old, the great composer always remembered him and said that his life had been influenced by the old music master. His own father was not a musician. Beethoven began his studies at the age of five years.

Sir Arthur Sullivan's father was a bandmaster in the army and at the age of ten years young Arthur could play every instrument in his father's band. The parents of other composers were musical.

In other lines there seems to be no hereditary connection. Child prodigies seem to come, as the old poem has it, "out of the nowhere into the here." However, it is known that generations may pass and the talent of a far-bear reappear in a child after having lain dormant for a century or more.

TOOK ADVICE OF HER MOTHER

Praises Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Wetmore, Colo.—"When I was married 14 years ago I was in bad health for a couple of years and when I tried to do anything I would get tired and worn-out. I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound off and on all these years and have recommended it to hundreds of women. I have given birth to six children and have taken the Vegetable Compound as a tonic before child birth. It has done me worlds of good. My mother had taken it several times and she recommended it to me."—Miss JOHN BRASSER, Wetmore, Colorado.

D. Provine. Branches were established at Walnut Grove, Robla and Mills during the year. A total of 6032 books were added to the collection in the year.

Due largely to a drop in placer mine output, California's gold production for last year showed a decrease. Federal figures by the Sacramento Chamber of Commerce mines department gave $10,785,315 as the state's gold output for 1928 as compared with $11,671,018 for 1927. Yuba county led all others in gold production with a total of $2,304,377 from nineteen placer mines and two lode mines.

Setting a new record in state highway work by clipping thirty days off the construction period fixed by the state, Samuel C. Brown, Richmond contractor, has completed widening of the bridge at Rodeo, according to the State Department of Public Works. Completion of the bridge project had been fixed in the contract at August 10.

Razing of a number of old and dilapidated buildings in the San Leandro boundaries loomed as the new board of condemnation announced that it was preparing to start proceeding against the owners. According to Fire and Police Chief J. F. Peralta, removal of the buildings is necessary not only because they are unsightly but to guard public health and minimize fire hazard. Recommendations that they be razed will be made before the city council at its next meeting, it was stated.

A skull nearly four feet long, believed to have been that of a prehistoric animal, was unearthed five miles from Indio by Charles Crawford, a rancher, while leveling a sand dune. The skull, forty inches long, 31 wide, and 22 high, is shaped like an elephant's.

Possibility of a reduction of as much as 20 cents in the local tax rate for the fiscal year 1929-30 was seen at Red Bluff as a result of the adoption by the city trustees of an ordinance fixing $35,358.83 as the amount of money necessary to be raised for the year. It is believed that this sum can be raised through a rate of $1.75 as compared to a rate of $1.95 last year.

Despite the failure of the $19,050 school tax election to carry the district board of trustees is proceeding with plans for an addition to classrooms to the North Sacramento School. Six rooms and an enlarged heating plant will probably be added to the school if bids for the work come within the unexpended budget balance of about $24,000. The recent election failed by three votes to carry, ninety-three being cast against the tax and ninety-one for it. Of the total of 184, eighty-three votes were cast in the Hagginwood district and 101 at the North Sacramento Polling place.

As long as an autoist has his car in perfect condition and under control at all times, there is no speed limit in California. Superior Judge K. Van Zante made this ruling at Hanford in setting aside the speeding conviction of Lester Shaw and Dewey Utser by a jury before Justice of the Peace H. H. Warnock. Judge Warnock had instructed the jury to convict if they found the defendants were traveling more than forty miles an hour on the open highway.

According to figures compiled by Z. P. Dyer, county assessor, the assessed value of Tehama county property for 1929 is $18,446,805, as compared to $18,254,260 for 1928, an increase of $192,545.

Won't Reveal Edison's Rubber Secret

Three youthful berry pickers came upon Thomas A. Edison in a field near Brookside, N. J., where he was gathering wild flowers which he told were to be used in cultivation for his rubber exploitations. During the conversation Mr. Edison told the youths the secret of his life, but they refused to disclose it to interviewers. The boys are, left to right, Lawrence Horner, twelve; Grant Thorburn, Jr., twelve; and Jack...

CHESTER

of the University of Illinois.

He went tearing up and down the aisles shouting and slamming the doors and tripping over feet and suitcases and paying no attention to anyone. He was quite at home wherever he went. In the observation car where a number of people were trying to write or to read quietly, Chester moved constantly from one place to another, trying this chair and then that, looking at one magazine and then tossing it aside for another, and all the time he was making a great racket. "Don't do that, Chester," his mother would occasionally say, but her warning seemed to act more as an incentive to further disturbance than as a deterrent. Chester had not yet learned the sound of his mother's voice. He went on as if nothing had been said to him. At the table Chester sulked a good deal or ate as if the process were wholly to satisfy his appetite. Generally he did not like what was set before him and made derogatory comments on the menu. Father and mother took little notice of this attitude; they were evidently quite used to it and were neither surprised or shocked. Chester is the illustration of one of modern training of the young. He is being allowed to express his own personality, to develop without restraint. If he learns good manners, or modesty, or self-control, or unselfishness, or regard for other people's comfort or personal rights he will pick these things up himself through experience and hard knocks, and possibly through watching some one else whose example he thinks well of. If I may judge from the way he acted between Seattle and Minneapolis the parental, restraining hand has not yet been laid on him. (© 1929, Western Newspaper Union.)

IS LIFE — But the Dog Forgot

By Charles Sughrue

Czar's "Jewelry" Melted

New York.—When the Russian crown jewels melted and ran down the side of her kitchen radiator Mrs. Rebecca Barasch of 550 Crown street, Brooklyn, knew that she had been gipped.

She was further convinced when the few jewels which did not melt proved to be a poor grade of glass, and as a result she spent three days in the rogues' gallery at police headquarters.

In the end she succeeded in identifying three men from whom she had bought the treasure of the late Romanoff for $900, and all three were arrested and locked up at Brooklyn police headquarters on charges of grand larceny.

They said they were Stefano Anillo, thirty-four years old; Frank Russo, thirty-six, and Emanuel Fallacena, thirty. On being questioned regarding the jewel transaction all three denied they were in any way connected with it. Mrs. Barasch, however, is positive in her identification, and the police believe that the men have been doing a big business in the name of the late czar during the last few months.

According to Mrs. Barasch two of them, Anillo and Fallacena, met her at the corner of New York avenue and Union street, May 22, and started talking in Russian. She is sixty-five years old and the sound of her native tongue was pleasant to hear.

The two told her they were refugees from the Soviet regime and that they were anxious to find the local Russian colony.

"You see," said one, "we stole the czar's crown jewels. They are worth a fabulous fortune and we must either sell them or give them to somebody to keep for us."

Mrs. Barasch had heard about the crown jewels being sold on the Rue de la Paix, but apparently forgot about it. She asked to see them, and was shown a pocketful of gleaming, crystal diamonds. They almost took her breath away but she asked: "How can I tell that they are real?"

"Why we will take you around to any jewelry store," offered one of the refugees, and they started out. As they were about to enter one, Russo, it is alleged, stepped from the doorway. He was identified as a jeweler and appraised the pocket of diamonds as being authentic, and worth a fortune.

In the end Mrs. Barasch took all three men to her bank. She drew out every cent that she had, $900, and apologized for not having more.

Then she took the Romanoff fortune home in her handkerchief and laid it out on the radiator while she prepared dinner. There were 20 big diamonds in all. Mrs. Barasch thought herself as wealthy as Czar Nicholas was, but when half way through peeling the potatoes she happened to cast a glance at her treasure.

Only eight remained. The others were a puddle of paste on the floor and these eight she later found to be glass.

In arresting the three men, the detectives stated that they watched their house for three days and that reports of their having sold crown jewels in Detroit have been received.

DIPPING INTO SCIENCE

Deafness in Infants

Because the inner channels of the ears are full of mucus, newly born infants are usually deaf for a few days after birth. In three or four days they become very sensitive to sound and loud noises startle or frighten them. Care should be exercised that only soft sounds reach the young one. Cave of Historic Interest

Harrisonburg, Va.—Another beautiful underground world—the Blue Grottoes, the caverns used in part by soldiers of the Civil war as a hiding place and camping site and on the walls of which are inscribed the names of thousands of Confederate and Union warriors from Ohio, Iowa, Indiana, Illinois, Pennsylvania, Maryland and Virginia—was formally opened by Col. E. T. Brown and his son, Maj. Edward M. Brown, who have spent more than $100,000 in developing this cave.

The opening of the Blue Grottoes makes six caverns in operation in the limestone country of the Shenandoah valley. More than $1,000,000 have been spent in developing these caverns for sightseeing purposes and it is known that $3,000,000 has been refused for them from northern capitalists seeking to operate the group as one chain.

Civil war soldiers which are inscribed upon its walls and which can easily be read today. The caverns also have the varicolored formation peculiar to places of this kind and which are formed by droplets of water through limestone formations extending over thousands of years. The caverns are located eight miles north of Harrisonburg on the Valley pike and run under a huge limestone knoll on the Moore farm.

The Blue Grottoes was developed by the Brown interests, which have expended more than $1,000,000 in developing the Endless Caverns near New Market, the Natural Chimneys and Sapphire Pool near Mount Solon, Va. Chief interest in Blue Grottoes centers around the thousands of names of the Civil war soldiers which are inscribed upon its walls and which can easily be read today.

Cult Quitting Kansas; Opposed to Tractors

Dodge City, Kan.—In the past six months there has been a steady exodus of the Amish people from southwest Kansas until only about four families are left of a community which had numbered more than 200.

The farmers of the Amish cult, who are frugal and successful, refuse to give in to the machinery age. They won't use tractors or install telephones or even window shades in their homes. They also oppose insurance, radio, phonographs and all musical instruments.

Rather than surrender their horses and their methods of farming, these people are moving to New Jersey, Virginia and Maryland, where they believe they can farm according to their own methods.

Washington.—The district judge found the jail unhealthful. Harry F. Sinclair, and his associate, H. Mason Day, are spending the summer, has been described as antiquated and unhealthful in a report by the grand jury. Attaches declare that neither Sinclair nor Day has suffered any ill effects.

Phosphorus Not Basis of Firefly Brilliance

Flies blaze, worms glow, fish flash—all, so scientists say, because of a substance called luciferin. About this time of year fireflies may be seen nearly every night over dark fields. Each insect appears to give a brief blaze of light at intervals—whence its name. There are some forty well-known kinds of living creatures which possess this "glow-in-the-dark" power, including the glowworms and various fish.

Such fish and insects have been called "phosphorescent," but this is incorrect. The element of phosphorus does not enter into this natural light at all. Luciferin is the substance involved. The word is patterned after Lucifer, the name of the morning star, which, according to Webster's New International dictionary, is a Latin word meaning "bringing light." The natural light found in fireflies, fish, and glowworms is many times more efficient than the light manufactured by man.

Misunderstanding

The late Avery Hopwood, the playwright who bequeathed a quarter of a million to the University of Michigan for annual literary prizes, was talking one day in New York about a banned book.

"The 'libraries,' she said, 'banned this book because they misunderstood it. The thing is ludicrous, really. It reminds me of the colored woman who staggered out of a chiro-podist's establishment with a very large and heavy bag on her back.

"Calla hissed a chiro-podist," she grunted, 'and can't stuff a dog!'

LOCAL GROCERS JOIN RETAIL ORGANIZATION

Blue & White Organization To Be Represented Here By Several Retail Merchants

Sponsored by The Rensel Grocery Company of San Jose, the Coast Wholesale Grocery Company, with branches at San Luis Obispo, Santa Barbara, Ventura, and the Julliard Cockerill Grocery Company of Watsonville and Monterey, the Blue & White Stores, composed of over 350 independently-owned and independently-operated retail grocers located in 60 towns and cities of California, will make their debut tomorrow.

The new group is a part of the five-state organization of Blue & White Stores numbering over 1400 located in California, Oregon, Washington, Idaho and Montana, each member while independent in ownership, allied with the other members to secure the benefits of group buying, selling and merchandising.

The organization of the California Blue & White Stores has been going on for several weeks under the supervision of the above named wholesalers, who as sponsors of the group will act as division buyers and supervise the selling and advertising efforts of the more than 350 stores located in this section. For the past two weeks member-stores have been busy with the distinctive blue and white paint which is the inside and outside trim of the stores, and by which they may be easily identified. Each store will have the Blue and White stores emblem on its front, which is similar to that shown in the advertising stores will carry in this newspaper, each week.

Back of each member is the tremendous buying power of the five-state organization of wholesale grocery houses which are allied for the purpose of securing for its members the best values the market affords. The California group was formed after exhaustive study of the various groups operating in other States had proved that this method of co-operative effort was most effective in bringing to the consumer standard brands of high quality foods at consistently low prices. The retailers to whom the plan of operation was presented were quick to see its many advantages which the advent of Blue and White Stores have brought to the women of other sections of the Pacific Coast.

"It is the plan of the Blue and White stores to feature quality food and grocery products at all times," said Mr. E. H. Rensel of the Rensel Grocery Company. "However, the tremendous buying power of the group combined with the large membership in other states, permits us to bring these products to the women of this section at consistently low prices."

"The Blue and White Stores may be located either by reference to the lists which our advertisements will carry, or by the 'Blue & White Stores' signs and blue and white fronts of our stores, which makes their identification easy. You will

COUNTING THOUSANDS OF PARTS BY CLEVER WEIGHING DEVICE

Greatly Simplifies Important Problem of Large Scale Production

COUNTING by weighing is one of the methods used at the great telephone factories of the Western Electric Company to keep track of the enormous numbers of small parts which are handled daily. As suppliers to the entire Bell System, the Western Electric must maintain an enormous manufacturing schedule, and keep large stocks of parts and apparatus on hand. In doing both of these much counting is necessary. A simple yet ingenious method has been worked out for determining the number of parts from their weight. The obvious method, of course, would be to count and weigh a few parts, then weigh the entire lot and use arithmetic to get the answer. Instead, by using some of the parts themselves as weights, the simple principle of the beam scale allows the work to be greatly simplified.

The containers holding the parts to be counted are put on the main scale platform, which is set level with the floor, and the operator sets a certain adjustment on the scale to compensate for the weight of the containers used. He then transfers enough of the small parts to the pan on the scale arm to bring the scale into balance. All that is necessary then is to multiply the number of parts thus transferred by 100, or whatever the ratio for the particular scale is, and the answer is the total number of parts in the containers on the scale platform.

This method of counting is so accurate that it can also be used in making up for shipment, packages of many kinds of parts.

Fish and Game Notes

By J. H. NEUSTADT

Fishermen often when seeking a place to vacation and spend time in fishing are attracted to places visited for years by others or those places extensively advertised.

But to bring results, effort should be made to locate such places as are recently opened or less frequented.

A place the writer can recommend is known as Jiggs Camp, thirty-five miles east of Red Bluff on Lassen Volcanic highway.

Down a trail one and one half miles in Battle Creek where trout up to 15 inches abound. The reason is that three or four miles away this creek crosses the highway where autos stop by the scores and anglers whip the stream a mile or two up and down, but rarely go below the dam.

That part that Jiggs has recently made accessible is below the dam, and cannot be reached from any other source, hence the fish are less often disturbed.

This camp is near and has a good entrance to Mill creek and Antelope, where fishing is always good. Jiggs can supply you with a cabin and all the fundamentals for good eats. He's an affable fellow, too, and a day or two spent here with the family gives fine scenery, a bracing atmosphere at a high elevation, clean surroundings and a creel full if papa or brother know how to get them.

When returned and genial Ed Foster presented the writer with a printed card carrying the query, "Are all fishermen liars, or are only liars fishermen?" He little knew the hardship he entailed because I was starting on a trip and although an accredited member of the liars club of which Joe Darcy is president,

A RARE BIT OF OLD CHINA

Telephone Exchange in San Francisco with Chinese Motif.

MOST visitors to San Francisco plan to see the Chinatown telephone exchange, and during the summer there are about 10,000 visitors every month. The building is of Chinese design, with a three-pagoda roof, the exterior painted in green, red and black, and the interior in black, Chinese red and gilt. When the exchange was opened there were 100 subscribers and three operators. Now there are 2,500 subscribers and nineteen operators, all of whom must know the name of every subscriber, for the Chinese insist on calling by name instead of by number.

and many local men of repute members, I felt it a duty to emulate George Washington, in relating my own experiences.

After enduring intense heat in the valley we rounded Red Bluff at right angles and steered for Chester. Rain overtook us and made the mountains slushy and almost impassable. Arrived at Chester, sleet and snow for three days, confined us to the hotel.

Result, no fish. Then on to Reno, entrance gate to Pyramid Lake, where the big ones are found.

But, boy, the big rainbows are there, a 6 pounder is unnoticed; a 10-pounder ordinary; 15 to 20 pound average; and above this to 40 pounds are catches about which the boys talk.

Enthusiasm became contagious. In twenty minutes a 10 pounder beauty was brought to gaff and laid away in the boat.

Within a few minutes the chug of the motor stopped, and refused to kick again, and after several hours effort to get 'er started, the obstinate creature refused to go, and the trip was ended after dark in ignominy at the end of a tow line.

A start was then made for Al Hardings Boys Camp at Tahoe whence the 10 pounder was carried and graced his breakfast table to appease the appetites of ten men and boys.

Her first graduate was Mrs. Dollie Jamison of this city. Others who graduated during the first years of her administration were Miss Pauline Hanson, Miss Cecelia Hedge, Miss Mabel Huling, Irene Doyle, Elma Greary, all of Redwood City.
